Why One Dream Foundation

Betty Phiri Chibwe's first visit to a Dollar Store inspired a lifetime of giving

"Growing up with single parents was not easy. Despite us having great higher education, our parents were poor and struggled to provide for our basic needs including school products. For example, when my father passed away, mother and I together with my siblings moved from the city to the village where the closest elementary school was about 16 miles away. One day, in my first grade, I was walking back from school with friends and we decided to stop by the river to cool off. On our way to the village that evening, I realized I had lost my pencil. I was so afraid to face my mother because I knew how much she would whip me. It was such a relief when the next morning on my way to school I found that pencil by the riverbank.

When we moved to the United States of America, I noticed that the Dollar stores here sold 20 pencils for One dollar. This was very exciting to me. With our minimal income, we decided to begin buying pencils and sending those to rural schools in Zambia. As time went by and our income improved, we started adding pens, books, toothbrushes & toothpaste, underwear, socks and used clothes plus more.

As the boxes became bigger and shipping became expensive, we started talking about how we could maximize our efforts. We agreed we could build a school – Oliver said not just a school but an Ivy League University in Zambia, Africa.

So many friends and family have died along the way and one that stands out the most is when my young sister carried her sick baby on her back to take her to the nearest health center, which was over 20 miles away. The baby had diarrhea and by the time she reached the clinic, the baby had died on her back already and she was not even aware. I met Dr. Mathew German, a medical doctor (friends of ours) just about the time I received the bad news. I shared that with him and he suggested we start sending medical help to clinics in Zambia, Africa. We decided we could add the hospital to our "building the Ivy League University" project. Not just a hospital but a research medical center, considering people are still dying from so many curable diseases i.e. malaria, urinary tract infections, yellow fever, malnutrition, respiratory tract infections, diarrheal etc"

"This is not my story alone but the reality of the 1.1 billion of people living in the continent of Africa every single day"

- WHAT'S THE MOST IMPORTANT THING WE ARE WORKING ON RIGHT NOW, AND HOW ARE WE MAKING IT HAPPEN AT ONE DREAM FOUNDATION?

We are unleashing the cultural revolution of new mindset. We are building a solar powered hospital in Zambia, Africa to help the less fortunate have free quality healthcare system without getting any bill EVER!

- HOW ARE WE DOING IT?

We worked with Apple, Google and Amazon - Created and developed an APP called Lubwe Radio Mix. This APP plays music from around the globe 24/7. DONATE YOUR BRICK BY DOWNLOADING THE APP. All proceeds from the APP 100% go to the project.

- WHY ARE WE DOING IT?

Each time you download the APP, it is like buying a brick and donate to help build the solar powered hospital. So the more downloads, the quicker we build the hospital using the APP. This is a one-time payment of $1.99. We have been speaking and engaging universities to join the movement at One Dream Foundation. #JoinTheMovement campaign

We are building a modern "Pyramid" or one app download at a time. Download and share your app from the app store: Now available in iTunes, Google Play or Amazon #EnjoytheMusic

One Dream Foundation Named Top 50 Startup Grind 2018 Global Conference Company.

- THE QUESTIONS IS HOW CAN YOU HELP OR GET INVOLVED?
